

Master in Finance

Class of 2010 Placement Report

I. Facts and Trends

In 2010-11, as the debt crisis hit the developed economies and led to a subsequent contraction in the growth of the emerging markets, the job markets around the world evolved to new levels of competitiveness.

Even though our Master in Finance Class of 2011 graduated in a difficult economic situation, they still commanded good positions in the Finance industry and Finance roles in other industries.

We at the IE Career Management Center rose to the challenge of placing IE students globally. We are certainly proud of our achievements. Our three specialized teams consisting of the career advisors, recruitment relations managers and career education professionals, work proactively with our students in providing them the resources and opportunities to compete in the job markets.

With the aim to train, advise, and assist our students and alumni in their job search, we are happy to report that we have developed a well rounded approach to career development.

This is coupled by our students being well equipped with the necessary skills and know-how to undertake the functions of finance with maximum effectiveness, efficiency and professionalism and the ability to apply the functions of finance to create corporate and social value.

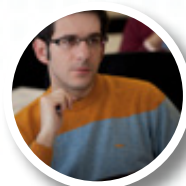

Our efforts in designing our Finance programs are reflected in the recent rankings by Financial Times, which placed our Master in Finance program in second position worldwide.*

The unique program characteristics have resulted in more than (93%) of the students working after 3 months of graduation. A substantial number of students (72%) accepted jobs in corporate finance, capital markets and investment management (private banking and fund management) divisions of bulge bracket banks and financial boutiques. The rest of the students chose a career in the financial departments of multinationals and small and mid-sized companies (8%) and finance positions in consulting firms (20%).

With regards to regions, the placements have been concentrated mostly in Europe (50%) and Asia (29%).

These new graduates joined the ranks of the more than 42,000 IE alumni who are based in more than 100 countries, both in public and private sectors and all types of industries with the aim of creating value for their communities.
